JUSTICE AND RIGHT

VOLUME XLII

T. N. T.

AN EXPLOSION OF PEDI-GRED TRUTH.

(Notes of the Grayling School), EQUITY? (In School as well as court?)

The meanest man I ever saw Allus key inside of the law;
And ten-times better fellers I've known
The blame gran'-jur'y's sent over the road.

HAPPENINGS.
A very enjoyable time was spent by the members and wives of the school board and faculty Monday evening, when a Hallowe'en party was given in honor of Mr. Bates. All passed through the labyrinth of terrors and emerged into the pleasant decorated room beyond. Games were enjoyed by all and an appropriate lunch was served, after which all joined in the telling of ghost stories.

Classes.
O boy! Ain't this gran-n-n-n-d. No school Thursday and Friday in the High School as one more teacher has decided to attend the State Teacher's Institute at Detroit. There also will be no school for Miss Wescott's and Miss Leekoff's pupils.

The Freshman will entertain the Sophmores Friday evening at a Hallowe'en Masquerade Party.

The Lyceum course which will be given under the auspices of the Senior class is the best that can be procured. Tickets for a single night are 50c for adults, and 35c for children.
The season tickets are only $1.75 and $1.00 so we urge you to buy these.
Get your seats reserved Tuesday afternoon and evening at A. M. Lewis Drug store, 5c.
The dates of the course will be:
Nov. 2—Sterling Male Quartet.
Dec. 13—Shubert Ladies Quartet
Jan. 1—Arthur Irwin, Magician and impersonator.
March 8—Hawaiian Quartet.

April 11—Wirt Lowther, Lecturer.
Come the first night and you will not miss the others.

The Telescope.

Ruth McCullough—Would I make a good salesman?

Hester Hans:—No. You would make a good saleswoman.

E. Schumann had a dream one night,
And died a little later;

The neighbors said it was from fright.

She dreamt the radiator.

(Across the Ojibwa Board)

Eleanore Schumann is no more, 'tis true,
Because the radiator
But she's so happy in heaven now,
She says she's Gladiator.

Oscar Taylor after smelling of a dead soldier.

"Say, Mike, can you tell me where the other side of the street is?"

"Sure across the road."

O. T. "Thash funny, Richards told me it was on this side."

Miss Gideon—(in civil gov't class)

What will the ladies wear in the Senate when they are elected?

Ivan Cameron—It doesn't make any difference in a Sennett.

Famous Closing Lines.
"That's taking the 'boss' down,"
said Ida Walden as she finished typing the dictation.

ARE YOU SOMEBODY?

In your later home have you acquired prominence, or are you just on the road?

No matter, there is a place where you are far more than just a "nobody." It is your own home town.
To keep them the same honor and keep them enthroned in your mind.
Your home town paper makes this possible. It is keenly gathered news of vital importance to be held as, metropolitan in tone and make-up as it is consistent with its special mission the purveying of 100 per cent pure news about neighbor to neighbor; it is chock full of character—a perfect mirror of the life of its district—your "old stamping ground."

Your merits may not be appreciated, but you ought to be thankful if your faults are not exaggerated.

Farm Bureau Notes

R. D. BAILEY
County Agricultural Agent

Good Things.

Amid all our troubles good things are happening in Crawford County.
Let us never fail to count our blessings.

Fine.

Malvin A. Bates who does not tip a foot of land and who has none to sell, fitted up a suite of rooms for the county agent at a cost of twenty-five dollars, and furnished a stove. Total cost not less than thirty dollars, exactly the amount the Farm Bureau men-ber-s are asked to pay in three years to help maintain their organization.

Mr. Bates has done this to help in the Farm Bureau and agriculture in the Crawford County through the count-

Others are trying to help us. This should encourage us to help ourselves, too.

Brodie Appointed.

C. L. Brodie, not long ago a county agent, then the able secretary of Michigan State Farm Bureau, was recently appointed a member of the State Board of Agriculture.

This Board governs our Agricultural College. It is not at all likely that this appointment would have been made if we had not had a State Farm Bureau.

Pugsley Appointed.

Another good man has gone to Washington to represent the farm in the United States Department of Agriculture. He is Chas. W. Pugsley editor of the Nebraska Farmer. He has been appointed Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. He has been in close touch with farmers all his life.

Seeks Reduced Rates.

The President of the National Farm Bureau has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to take steps to lower freight rates to 10 to 20 per cent on necessities of life.

Advises Shippers to Beat Strike.

Acting upon advice from the Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the State Farm Bureau

traffic department is advising all Michigan shippers with commodities that they would move soon to get under way at once if that is possible.
Advises from the I. C. C. indicate that Washington is almost thoroughly convinced that a rail strike is inevitable and that an extended tie-up of transportation is likely. Shippers are urged to get busy before October 30
when the strike is scheduled to start.
City Paper Praises Farm Bureau.

The Grand Rapids Press says:

"The Press places confidence in the integrity and leadership of Farm Bureau officials."

Big Business.

Since July 1 the Seed Department of State Farm Bureau has shipped out 384,661 pounds of seeds.

State Farm Bureau shipped 159 cars of fertilizers in August.

Last spring ten thousand blankets were sold by the Farm Bureau.

Orders have been placed for twenty-eight thousand blankets for fall sales.

Sales of guaranteed virgin all wool blankets at Farm Bureau headquarters in Lansing averaged a thousand dollars daily during spring and early fall.

18,000 checks are being mailed out to members for wool sold through

State Farm Bureau.

Feeding Hints.

I have secured to give away a few copies of "Feeding Hints for Dairymen" to the first few who will write me on call at the office over Grayling Post Office.

This was prepared at our Agricultural College. Is in plain language, practical. Will aid dollars, this winter, to the income of the man who will follow it.

Who will be first? It will be interesting to see who are the ones who try to secure these copies.

Wool Sold.

Farmers posted more wool with the State Farm Bureau this year than last. The managers have already sold half of it.

Receive Honors.

Joseph Mallinger, Beaver Creek, Twp.,
enjoyed a free trip to the State Fair in Detroit as a result of his hard study on the subject of agriculture.

Considering there are 7,500,000 sacks and nearly 1,000,000 pouches used in the postal service, about 2,500,000 of which on average are stored for periods running from months to years.
Mr. Hays believes a search will possibly bring to light much mail unaccounted for.

The postmaster-general has sent out an order to all points where the sacks and pouches are stored for an immediate inspection and "shaking down" of each. Such mail is found will be specially marked and forwarded so that the addressee may know the cause of the delay. The order also provides that postmasters are to be held strictly responsible and must see that every sack in the future is thoroughly inspected before it is cast away.

"Every day you tell yourself a dozen worth while things you could do if you had a million dollars, and every day you neglect to do the dozen worth while things you could do without a million dollars."

THERE'S GOODIES OF ROOM FOR ALL.

Speaking of enemies, don't have them. Don't fight. Don't get even.
Ignore. Life is too short for grudges and vengeance. Go on. Let the other fellow stew. You keep sweet. Nothing can punish him worse. If a man doesn't like you, keep away from him. It's a large roomy world. And, thank God, there is always another side of the street.—Frank Crane.

Stomach Trouble?

Health is Most Important to You and Your Family.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—"When my first baby was about a year old, he had a stomach disorder while teething. He was a very sick baby when one of my neighbors told me to give him a few drops of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery every two or three hours. Up to the time he gave him the Golden Discovery, he had been unable to retain his food. The Discovery brought him out of this condition without further doctoring and he has had no stomach trouble since. He is at the present time a strong, healthy youngster, seven years old. —Mrs. Linda Burdette, 1010 N. Rose St.

Miss "Tipps."

Young Little liked a "little bit on," but unfortunately he had not the skill, or perhaps it "was only the luck, to tickle winners."

On looking through his racing paper one morning he saw a tipster's advertisement.

"Two sure things for $5."

He purchased a money order for the required amount, and wrote off straightway to the address in the advertisement.

But the advertiser was a sharper man than Little, for in reply Little received the following note:

"Dear Sir—As advertised, my 'sure things' are:

"Lace Button—Sure to come off.

"Dirty Carpet—Wants some beating."

Reinforced.

Two contractors of a type unfortunately too familiar were taking of some buildings which had collapsed before they were finished.

"Well, Billerton," said one, "you always have better luck than I do."

"Better luck? How's that?"

"Why, my row of new houses blew down in last week's wind, you know, while yours weren't harmed. All were built the same—same woodwork, same mortar, same everything."

"Yes," said the other, "but you forget that mine had been papered."—Harper's Magazine.

Like the Old Folks.

A bachelor who is forever putting his foot in it, recently visited the proud parents of a new boy.

The mother held up the bundle for the inspection of the bachelor and asked: "Tell us, now, frankly, which of us do you think he is like?"

After a careful examination of the mate, the bachelor answered: "Well, Marie, of course, intelligence has not yet dawned in his face, but he's wonderfully like both of you."

A Business Deal.

"Remember, I don't know anything about business. In business matters I'm a baby."

"Can't deal with you, then. A baby wants it all. Send me somebody who does know something about business."

CAPTAIN LINCOLN.

Synopsis.—Samson and Sarah Truver, with their two children, Josiah and Betsy, travel by wagon from their home in the country to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sammonans, in Illinois. At Niagara Falls, they meet John Rutledge, who also comes to the Sammonans. Sarah's ministrations save the life of Harry Needles, who had accompanied the Truvors. They reach the Sammonans, and are welcomed by young Abe Lincoln, Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim and others. Samson and Sarah call on the local Armorer. Harry strikes Bap McNoll. Harry is attacked by McNoll and his gang, and Bim drives off his assailants. Sarah's ministrations save the life of Harry Needles, who had accompanied the Truvors. SLOW DRIVERS MUST LET OTHERS GO AHEAD.

It has been called to our attention by several of our auto drivers that at times they encounter other drivers who, not being in any hurry, or for some other reason, are not courteous about letting others pass ahead, and at times will deliberately "hog" the road, and either force the other car out into the soft dirt at the sides of the road or make them trail behind. We also are told that some drivers seem to take delight in keeping a car back and whenever the rear car tries to pass the driver in the head car will speed up just enough to keep the other driver from passing and then to make the other fellow feel in a more happy frame of mind, will look back with a Satanic grin. O, most of you drivers have met this kind of "road hog" and know him well. The next time this thing occurs to you when you are in a hurry, and to hear the other fellow deliberately trying to block your advancement just take a slip of paper out of your pocket and write thereon "See so."

THIS IS PERSONAL

Prosperity, general Prosperity, local Prosperity, individual Prosperity, is a matter of PERSONAL effort.

Where each individual in a community personally gives the best thought, and the best effort, to the problems of life, that community will prosper, and you can set it down as an established fact that prosperity is much more contagious than depression.

Life is a PERSONAL matter; our own welfare is our first consideration; having taken care of that, we can give thought to the neighbors, and the community, and the nation. But just as surely as we give our personal welfare the consideration it demands, we at the same time contribute to the best interests of our neighbors, community and nation.

In rising from a depressed business condition, every individual should realize the personal responsibility he carries to throw off depression, whether it be local or national.

For instance, all over the United States, business is better this month than it was last month; it will be better next month than it is this month, because, as a nation, we are coming out of the clouds of depression, and we are coming out because individuals are making the effort to get all the lines of industry going again.

The Government has called to its councils important men to the end that in all parts of the country individual effort may be given to bring about a resumption of activity in all lines of industry.

We are making splendid headway, but we will get ahead so much faster if each individual will throw himself and herself into the battle to push things on.

Let's not hoard our money—fearful of trouble; money that is idle cannot grow; money held idly is a brake on business; money not in use is an obstacle to individual progress, and therefore to community and national growth.

Supposing we have made ventures that have not been successful—it does not follow that further ventures are going to be disastrous. If we kept to that line, there would be no growth in any direction. The perfect man or the perfect conditions have not yet come, but we have gained such dependable knowledge that we can base investments very safely.

Three things can be taken as reliable guides: First—is the product, a utility, or a necessity; Second—Do the men behind the product measure up to the proper stands of business integrity; Third—is the organization behind the product and the men wisely built and under competent control? Given these three essentials and that industry will be a success beyond any question. It will surely prove a profitable investment.

Such propositions are before the people in every section of the country, and in their development, they are bringing national prosperity more rapidly than any other one influence.

There is not a man nor woman in Michigan that cannot contribute powerful aid to the upbuilding of industry throughout the country. Most of them could contribute money, and thus make an investment highly profitable to themselves; and those who cannot invest money can contribute Good Will, and have the faith and courage to commend the new industry; to have faith in the established reputations of men and markets.

The great effort now being made by the Government, and the big business men of America is to find more employment for the workers of the country. When industry is humming and everybody is at work, wages are good, the retail merchants prosper—then everybody shares in the development and prosperity of the country.

It is all a personal matter, and I have no right to expect you to do any more than I do, and vice versa, you have no right to expect me, unaided by you, to bring about prosperity.

We have been asking the readers of this paper to buy our stock, because we have a product that is a national necessity; we have the men behind the product who will stand the keenest scrutiny as to business integrity; and we have the organization, in the hands of as competent men as there are in America. We will make good money for our stockholders just as sure as the days come and go. You can help to bring about the operation of this company quicker by buying our stock—you will put your idle money into earning immediately. You will help to establish, in your own state a prosperous industry of which you are a part; you will be contributing personally to the welfare of yourself, your neighbor, your community, your nation.

Never mind the other fellow. Come in and be an active factor. Float with the "Red Blood" of the community. Don't let your life become stagnant and useless. Do your share to provide employment for everybody.

Not only do we urge you to buy our stock, but we urge you to patronize your merchants. Set your money going—keep it in circulation. Be optimistic. Carry with you an atmosphere of cheerfulness. Come on—be a Live Wire!

IN LIST OF "FIRST" WOMEN

Mary O'Toole, Washington Auxiliary Member, First Female Judge in District of Columbia.

The list of "firsts" to which Miss Mary O'Toole, Washington, D. C., is entitled, indeed places her among the "first" women of America.

In order of rencency: Miss O'Toole is, by President Harding's order, judge of the municipal court in Washington, and the first woman judge likewise to perform a marriage ceremony in the District. She was the first woman member of the Washington Chamber of Commerce's board of directors and the first woman member of the board of directors of a District of Columbia bank. She organized and was the first president of the Woman's City Club of Washington. She was one of the first woman attorneys in the country.

Miss O'Toole is a native of Ireland, from which, after a high school education and at seventeen years of age, she emigrated to the United States. As secretary to Judge Wheeler, Steuben county, New York, she became interested in law and competent as a court reporter. Later she went to New York city, and entered a Wall street firm as a chief clerk, continuing to study law. She joined the government forestry service in Washington to complete her law studies on the side.

Immediately after she joined the Vincent B. Costello post of the American Legion Auxiliary in Washington, the president asked her to become first vice-president. She had to decline because of her court duties.

LEGION MAN AS LIFE SAVER

William Heinenan of New Jersey Post Rescues Six Men and One Woman From Drowning.

For saving the lives of six men and a woman, all trapped in a treacherous undertow at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., William Heinenan, wounded in action during the World war, will be able to wear Carnegie medal alongside the Croix de Guerre he won.

A length of rope and an automobile tire inner tube made it possible for the men to effect the rescue of the woman after a life guard and five other men had failed in their attempts. Swimming out to the woman, the wounded man placed the tire about her neck and she was hauled to the shore. Then Heinenan rescued the six men, themselves caught in the undertow and battling for their lives.

Reaching the shore, the young veteran fell exhausted. He refused medical attention, however, and declined to tell anything about himself. He served overseas with the old Sixty-ninth New York, later the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth Infantry, Forty-third Division. He is a resident of Greenville, N. J., and belongs to the local post of the American Legion.

Engagement of Charles H. Duell, New York Legion Man, and Lillian Tucker Announced.

The engagement of Charles H. Duell, New York, and Lillian Tucker, artist who appeared last season in the theatrical success, "Three Faces East," has been made known in Paris, where Miss Tucker had been sojourning. Duell is a son of the late Judge Charles H. Duell, of the United States Customs Court of Appeals and a cousin of Elihu Root. He served during the war on the naval destroyer Wilkes, operating from Queenstown. He was a delegate to the first convention of the American Legion at St. Louis and later organized the Yonkers (N. Y.) post of the Legion.

Advise Against Politics.

"The American Legion will never be refused a worthy request," Governor Edward L. Edwards of New Jersey, declared recently in addressing the annual convention of the state order. "I know of no selfish motives within the organization," the executive continued, advising the Legion men to "by all means, keep out of politics, the ruination of every organization."

LEGION MAN UP FOR MAYOR

Henry H. Curran Wins Nomination in New York City, With Comrade Pressing Cities Second.

Two service men of the World war were among the four candidates who sought their party's nomination for mayor of New York recently. One of them, Henry H. Curran, won out in the contest, with an ex-service comrade, F. H. LaGuardia a close second.

Mr. Curran, at present president of the borough of Manhattan, taking in what is commonly known as New York city, left off a thriving law practice to enter the army. He entered the first officers training camp at Plattsburgh in 1917, was commissioned a major and served overseas as commander of the Three Hundred and Second engineers, Seventy-seventh division. Following his discharge, in April, 1919, he organized the Three Hundred and Second engineers post of the American Legion and was prominent in the work of that organization until he actively entered politics, when, as he was holding an elective office and trying for another, he was unable to hold any Legion office because of the service organization's ruling.

F. H. LaGuardia, president of the New York board of aldermen, a major in the air service during the war, on his defeat pledged his full support to Mr. Curran. John Purroy Mitchel, former mayor of New York, entered the air service shortly after his defeat, for re-election in 1917 and likewise became a major in the air service in which capacity he met his death.

ATHLETICS HIS STRONG WORK

Harry Maloney, American Legion Post Commander, Leads Team to Victory in Big Games.

The old "setting up" exercises of the army, invented primarily, they alleged, for the doubtful amusement of sleepy bunks but which happily spread by War department order to include the majors and colonels, did nothing to wreck the constitution or disposition of Harry W. Maloney, once the World war assiant director of athletics at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., a veteran of the Boer war, during which he served with the English. Maloney kept in condition during the days of the A. E. F. Leaving off the training of varsity athletes at Stanford, he became director of athletics at Camp Fremont, Calif. Later he went to France as supervisor of the athletic entertainment of the Eighth Infantry, and when the big inter-alled games were held in the Pershing stadium, Paris, in the spring of 1919, he was in charge of the American team which swept everything before it. Maloney is commander of Fremont post, the American Legion.

Holder of World's Record in Gun-Pointing, W. S. Wilson Retires From the Navy.

With sixteen years of service in the United States navy and the world's record in gun-pointing to his credit, William S. Wilson, Westfield, Mass., has retired from a life of thrills and travel to that of a front-porch citizen.

"Now I'll have a chance to get acquainted with my family," Wilson wrote the American Legion headquarters when his final honorable discharge was in his hands. He is the father of four children, including twins.

The sailor made two trips around the world before the World war. During it he was on the first United States sub-chaser to cross the Atlantic. He spent the winter of 1917-18 in the waters off the Azores, and later was detailed as adjutant to organize a naval unit at Columbia university, New York. He established his gun-pointing record in 1908 by getting ten hits in ten shots in seventeen seconds at battle range. On discharge he was chief torpedo man in the fleet naval reserve.

Stranded Warship Withstands Waves for Years

Since it went ashore on the coral reefs off Santo Domingo in March, 1918, the U. S. cruiser Memphis has stood like a veritable fort against the wild waves of the Caribbean sea. This photograph was taken during the equinoxial gales of September, 1921, and shows how terribly the waves pound the old cruiser. Yet still she stands firm and solid, a monument to American shipbuilding.

Not in Weather Bureau's Sphere.

The science of the weather and the atmosphere is called meteorology, and has very little to do with astronomy.

Yet the public almost invariably confuses meteorology with astronomy and calls upon the weather bureau for information about comets, sunspots, eclipses and the calendar.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

LORNA DOONE

By R. D. BLACKMORE

Condensation by Katherine R. Markward, Alston, Mass.

Richard D. Blackmore's "Lorna Doone" was born at Longworth, Berkshire, England, June 7, 1825. He was educated at Blundell's school, Tiverton, and at Exeter college, Oxford, where he obtained a scholarship. His first publication was a volume of poems which showed particular promise, nor did a later volume, "The Story of a Shepherd," fail to do so. He settled down in Tiverton, and set earnestly to work. Several publications followed, the first novel being "Clara Vaughan," the merits of which were promptly recognized. But it was in 1860 that he suddenly sprang into fame with "Lorna Doone." The story was one of the famous novels of the romantic period, and appearing, as it did, at a time when the reading public was waiting and ready for a work of this type, it was a great success, and pronounced a "singular charm, vigor and imagination."

Through "Lorna Doone" many other stories were born, reached the popularity like "Lorna Doone," and he will be remembered chiefly as the author of this charming story, which is a classic of the west country. Many pilgrimages are made annually to the Doone valley, although the actual characteristics of the scene of the story differ greatly from the description given by the lively imagination of the author.

"Lorna Doone" is a truly outdoor story; at times it is very dramatic and picturesque and threaded with adventure.

Blackmore kept to his quiet country life to the last, and passed away at Tiverton on Jan. 20, 1900.

IN EXMOOR in the county of Somerset, in the year of grace 1081, dwelt the outlawed Doones, who, huge and brutal, defied king and common, committed brazen robberies with impunity, and took refuge after every outrage in the well-nigh impregnable Glen Doone. On the nearby farm of Plover's Barrows dwelt John Ridd, a great limber lad who had been summoned home from boarding school in his teens to learn that his father, a wealthy farmer, had been slain in a night raid by the Doones. John blunt and honest was kind to his mother and his two sisters, did his share of the farm work, and, as he grew to manhood, learned to ride a horse and shoot a blunderbuss with unfailing skill.

One day, while yet a boy, his fishing excursions in Bugworthy water led him to discover an entrance to Glen Doone, so secret, so remote, that the robber band stationed to guard there never dreamed that living soul would discover it. Following a little entance, John emerged at last into a dell blooming with primroses and beheld with amazement a beautiful child of eight with hair like a black shower and eyes full of pity and wonder. Her name (pretty, like herself) was Lorna Doone and John often had her in his thoughts through the six years which followed. He was twenty then and Lorna fourteen, and already John Ridd knew that he loved her, that fate had decreed it so and that all the world was against when weighed against this girl.

To be found in Doone valley spelled death for any man, but the thought of Lorna's light and white, nimble, smooth and elegant, filled John with yearning and lured him to the hazard. Again and again he sought the mink in the primrose bower above the cascade and then one afternoon in the splendor of an April sunset John once more threw down the gauntlet which love always casts at danger. To Lorna's tremulous, "You are mad to come; they will kill you if they find you here," John smiled and thought her fairer than the prettiest amaz of which she stood.

She lived in constant fear; she confessed, for the gigantic and passionate Carver Doone openly paid her homage and glowered with jealous eyes at any man who dared just a glance at her. "I care naught for him or his jealousy," cried John Ridd. "I have loved you long as child, as comely girl, and now as full grown maiden. I love you more than tongue can tell or heart can hold in silence." Lorna raised her glorious eyes and, flinging her arms about his neck, cried, with her heart on his. "Darling, I shall never be my own again. I am yours forever and forever." But before he went she was in tears. "How dare I dream of love? Something in my heart tells me it can never be."

That fear of his beloved's spurred John to penetrate into Glen Doone one night at the risk of his life for word of Lorna. Once a guard leveled his gun at him but went off cringing at the thought that after all so huge a form could be only that of Carver Doone.

It was a real danger which threatened Lorna, for old Sir Ensor Doone, head of the robber crew, lay dying and he alone had been her protector.

Almost Incredible.

Lemons. Many persons may not know that the scent and flavor of lemon peel pounds in minute cells, close to the surface of the fruit, and that by slicing it thin they will cut through these innumerable cells and thus obtain double the quantity of the essential oil that could be procured by anyone care less of this fact. The cells being cut through, it follows that a great part of the oil remains on the white of the lemon. This is easily abstracted by rubbing a lump of sugar over it.

MELODIOUS FUNSTERS ARE THE NOTED STERLING MALE QUARTETPoppy Program of Celebrated Vocal Group to Be Given Here—All Claver Platform Artists

STERLING-MALE QUARTET.

The Sterling Male Quartet, four jolly lads who can really sing, have a surprise in store for lyceum folks when they appear here soon. They are essentially a singing quartet with voices quite out of the ordinary. They are more than this, however; they are good vocalists who can entertain. They are fun makers and all-round entertainers who know how to put lots of good, clean "punch" into a lyceum program.

Standard gems and popular favorites in quartet music, with abundant solo offerings to bring the really fine voices to the front, make up the main part of the program. With dialect, character impersonations, readings, special "stunts" and rollicking fun, they round out their evening. Each member is a thoroughly trained professional singer. Both individually and collectively, the Sterling boys have made an enviable record in the concert and lyceum field.

Clifford Merrill, of Beaver Creek Tp., will represent Crawford County Grange at Flint meeting of State Grange.

Trees at Low Price

The Forestry Department of our Agriculture College offers Norway spruce, Austrian pine, and white pine seedlings at six dollars per thousand for sale this fall.

Who will beautify the landscape with artistic groups, hedges or wind-breaks?

Sought by Commission.

County farm bureaus in Michigan have been asked to tell the Joint Congressional Committee of Agricultural Inquiry, now sitting at Washington, what the farmer paid for his necessities during the period of 1913-1921, inclusive, and to compare those figures with prices that he received for farm crops and products during the same period, says the State farm bureau.

The Commission seeks such information from every county farm bureau in the country to assist it in determining the causes which brought about the depression in agriculture as a business how to best remedy the present situation. The American Farm Bureau and State Farm Bureau Federations are cooperating in obtaining such data. September 28 the Michigan State Farm Bureau sent price survey questionnaires to every county farm bureau in the state.

Accurate records of the price farmers paid and received for commodities on March 1 and November 1 each year during that period are sought from local authorities as a barometer of general conditions during that time. What the farmer paid for food and clothing, house furnishings, production equipment, feeds, seeds, fertilizer and spray material, and what he received for various farm products are questions asked in the county questionnaire. Changes in quality, size, weight and so on in commodities purchased are also sought in the farm bureau's survey.

Resorters Help.

The coming of transient resorters and fishermen, and of those who build and stay several months within the county, help in many ways.

They buy groceries and camping supplies.

This helps our merchants. Many need transportation. This helps our jitney drivers. Meals they sell for open markets for farmers eggs, butter, vegetables, meats. Their purchase of lands at resort property changes wild fords, assessed at a few dollars per acre to property often worth several thousand when built upon.

The lumber they buy helps local industry. Men get work building the camps and cottages. People get positions as cooks and caretakers.

Farmers have chance to supply these summer homes with many products of the farm, and should prepare to furnish butter, eggs, milk, cream, chickens, lettuce, peas, radishes, onions, strawberries, new potatoes and sweet corn in dependable amounts and attractive form.

Government Says So, Too.

Your county agent could not keep back a smile of satisfaction on reading the "Weekly News-Letter" for Oct. 5, 1921, published by U. S. Department of Agriculture, two and one-half columns praising green manure, and giving actual cases as proof.

We have "hollered" a lot this fall in favor of rye and rye, or even weeds as green manure. It has not all fallen on deaf ears.

More than one has heeded it, as well as our suggestion about selecting seed corn, and will selecting poultry house plans.

Plans for a hen house just suited to our climate, and in which hens will thrive, can be seen at the county agent's office.

Branch Tp., is having his cows test for tuberculosis by Dr. H. E. Rea V. S. of West Branch.

Mr. Schreiber is taking this highly praiseworthy precaution before he starts selling milk in Grayling, which he contemplates doing.

FORMING GOOD READING HABITS.

If parents wish their children to form good reading habits they must first form such habits themselves. And there is no better way to do this than to bring into the household a periodical that will be of interest to every member of it; that will supply the best reading for old and young. Among the periodicals of this description the Youth's Companion is unique. Not only does it aim to entertain and inform boys and girls in their teens, as its name suggests, but there is not a page in it that parents can pass over with indifference.

The 52 issues of 1922 will be crowned with serial stories, short stories, editorial poetry, facts and fun. Subscribe now and receive:

How-Better-Than-Pills?

The question has been asked—in what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.
